Hundreds See Elks' Red Riding Hood Show

NEVADA CITY: The biggest party ever held in the Elks Club in its 48 years of social activity took place Saturday night when a crowd of over 300 jammed the Pine street building to enjoy a play and dance. Designated as Grass Valley Night special entertainment that started at 8 p. m. lasted well over two hours with the dinner guests applauding each skit and musical number on the stage.

Starting with a ham dinner cooked by Bert Foreman and ending with school games the party was one that will be long remembered by the local Elks and their guests.

Singing waiters costumed by Dress Designer "Aunty Beemer" and made by Berneice Penrose, Gladys Wasley and Olga Stewart were displayed to advantage on Bill Wasley, Howard Penrose, John Webster, Lonney Noyes, Elbridge Skeahan, Roman Conrad, Robert Tamblyn, Carl Hieronimus, Robert Schiffner, Moscoe Smart, Cameron Larsen, Walter Johnson and Ted Smart.

The Elks Players presented the second in their winter series of dramatic entertainment with their own inimitable version of George Hansen's "Little Red Riding Hood" with Reverend Angus Miller as the school teacher, Howard Wasley as the golden curled Red Riding Hood, Frank Stewart as the Big Bad Wolf, Jim Hash as Grandmother, Sam Shearer as the Wood Chopper with Carl Noren, Harold Washburn and Scotty Ponton as school kids. Ray Spickelmier again played the part of the miner from the first play put on by the Elks Players, "The Shooting of Dan McGrew."

Between the acts specialty skits were performed and sung by Dorothy Barach, Dick Prine, Bill Tobiassen and Hugh Brown. Continuous community singing was ably handled by Elbridge Skeahan and the best performance in the orange game was won by John Webster. Bob Paine was general chairman of the evening's entertainment.

The Elks Players will present a complete two-hour minstrel show with music and costume in late January.

Pointing out that a lease must comply with the requirements of the Housing and Rent Act of 1947, the agency listed the following five main points to remember:

1. The lease is on a voluntary basis—for both landlord and tenant.

2. The amount of the increase can be up to, but no more than 15 per cent. It can be any amount less than 15 per cent.

3. The lease must give the tenant the right to live in the rented quarters, at the rental rate agreed upon, at least through December 31, 1948.

4. The lease must not decrease the essential services, furniture, furnishings and equipment which the landlord was providing at the time the lease was signed.

5. The landlord must file a copy of the lease with the local area rent office within 15 days after it is signed. He must also file three copies of a simple registration of lease form.

"We could put out the Shopper and two fair issues of the Nugget each week in addition to our commercial printing business," he said, "but it would result in downgrading the quality of some aspect of the operation. Rather than do this, we will publish a first-rate weekly Nugget, continue our commercial printing in its present high plane, and continue to provide Nevada county every Friday with the Nugget Shopper, a complete-coverage advertising medium of top value to shoppers and advertisers."

HISTORICAL SOCIETY NOTES

Because of the interest in last week's article appearing in th Nugget, November 18, 1947, concerning the Indian Wars in Nevada County, readers have asked if the solemn treaty of peace between the California Militia and the Indian Chiefs, Weima, Buckler and Poolel was kept.

The treaty of May 25, 1850 ended the large demonstrations of hostilities, but as an aftermath the Nevada County Historical Society offers the following story from Thompson and West.

One day in the summer of 1851 a team driven by two men wound its way slowly along the crooked mountain road, near the site of the present town of Spenceburg. (Spenceville) One of them, a young lad, loitered behind the wagon, and when his companion had disappeared around a bend in the road, two Indians appeared out of the thicket, and one of them shot the young loiterer. The teamster heard the shot and returned only to find his companion lying wounded by the roadside. He was immediately conveyed to the Indiana House, kept by his uncle, Mr. Waldron, where he soon died. A band of twenty-one determined men was collected by Waldron and Captain Walker to avenge the boy's untimely death. A raid was made on the Yuba River Indians, a number of whom were captured and conveyed as prisoners to Rough and Ready, accompanied by two interpreters and their chief, Captain John. Here it was demonstrated that the murderers were not of that tribe, but belonged to Wemah's band. The name of this well known Indian was Guielermus, and was given him at one of the old Missions, and had been corrupted by American pronunciation to Wemah.

A warrant was then issued by

Chinese Joss House To Be Restored Soon

GRASS VALLEY: Elmer Stevens, a director of the Nevada County Historical Society, yesterday stated that restoration of the ancient Chinese Joss House, was soon to be made.

Stevens said that Edward Tinloy is aiding in the work, and that requests have been made of the city council to contribute toward the project.

A considerable part has been preserved and is in storage.

Mrs. Doris Foley, president of the society, stated that the next meeting will take place December 8th in the James S. Hennesy School. The speaker will be Dr. Rockwell Hunt, professor of history in the College of the Pacific, and author. His topic will be early California lore.

Earl Covey, chairman of the fiesta committee, announced he will attend a meeting of the California Centennial Committee in Los Angeles December 1st and 2nd. He is a member of the 25 man advisory board.

STREET DEPARTMENT IS ON THE BALL

The city council and the street department are to be commended for their action in erecting a splash board along the pedestrians' walk on the Pine Street bridge.

Piety Hill residents and others had complained that thoughtless drivers inundated them with dirty water on rainy days. The bridge is narrow. Those on foot had nowhere to dodge.

Now they are protected by the splash board, which the council has thoughtfully constructed as the rainy season approaches.

The street department has done such a good job there, it might not be presumptuous to direct attention to the fact that, freezing over night, with a heavy, slippery frost laid on, the bridge is possibly the number one driving hazard in Nevada City.

Whether or not anything can be done to reduce the skidding hazard is a question that those with experience in street work can best answer. If it is possible, it would certainly be an excellent project for that exceedingly busy crew.—H. M. L., Jr.

JUST WONDERIN'

I Wonder as the Freedom train
Moves on its destined way,
If we can catch the import now
On this Thanksgiving Day.
And looking back to former years,
With clearer vision see
The firm foundations laid by those,
Who gave us Liberty.

Two trains are moving across America today and in each one we see the soul of America, revealed in a time of world trouble and international confusion. In the Freedom train, we recognize an effort on the part of a free government to make its people familiar with the priceless documents which guarantee our rights and with which we may preserve those rights for all future generations.

The Freedom train is a great teacher of American hsitory and there can be no doubt that the young people of the nation as well as those of mature years, will find in its displays, an education which will enable them to evaluate the priceless boon of liberty and prompt them to dedicate themselves individually and as a nation to the task of its preservation.

Another train moves across the land—the Friendship Train and again we catch a glimpse, more than a fleeting glimpse, of the soul of our beloved nation. This train goes on its merciful mission in the spirit of all that is best in a freedom loving state; it knows no class, race or creed; as it passes, bigotry fades away, and intolerance hides in shame. These gifts of a free people are for those who are in dire need and there are none who may not receive its largess. Surely, the carping critics of our democracy, must stand abashed in the presence of this great demonstration of international good will.

Surely, we may be thankful at this season of the year. Thankful that free America is our homeland and that under the star flag of the free, the great heart and soul of country goes marching on.

Military might, may protect our physical borders and defeat the evil intentions of our enemies, but, a demonstration of true democracy in action, serves a higher purpose and those who listen in ignorance to the purveyors of foreign idealogies, will, in many instances, see the better way and be convinced.

Liberty is everybody's business and eternal vigilance is the price we must pay for its continuance. This nation is moving forward; if this were not true, there would be no Freedom Train, no Friendship Train, no hope for the future, no cause for Thanksgiving. Today, our greatest cause for giving thanks is the fact that the soul of America is marching on.

—Adeline Merriam Conner.

HISTORICAL NOTES

E. W. Roberts, the Justice of the Peace, and placed in the hands of Constable Jack Elder for service. He went with a small posse to the Indian Rancharia at Rose's Second Corral, about two miles from Rough and Ready, where he so conducted himself as to arouse the ire of the Diggers, and was driven out of camp at the point of the arrow. When he returned empty handed Captain Walker's company threatened to make a raid upon the Indians if some one was not captured and hung before long. Judge Roberts then collected a posse of five and started for Wemah's villiage to see what could be done. They proceeded up Squirrel Creek as far as North Star Flat, now Clark's Ranch where they met Wemah and his little son accompanied by a guard of Indians. Covering them with their rifles they demanded a parley, which ended in the surrender of Wemah and his son.

While on their return home through Boston Ravine, the miners of that place demanded to know by what authority Wemah was being kept prisoner. They all knew the old chief, but were unacquainted with Judge Roberts, and made demonstrations to release the Indian. It was not until they arrived at the house of Judge Walsh, in Grass Valley, that they were satisfied and allowed the posse to depart with their prisoners. Upon arriving in Rough and Ready a consultation was held, and Wemah agreed to have the guilty men brought in. Runners were sent out, who returned on the third day with two Indians, who Judge Roberts proceeded to examine before committing them for trial. The examination commenced at nine o'clock in the morning, and was not concluded until midnight. While the regular inquisition was progressing, the crowd of over five hundred men selected a jury to determine the guilt of the prisoners independently. This miners' jury listened to the evidence and reported their verdict to the people. Judge Roberts committed one of them named Collo, but discharged the other, making a short speech to the crowd, who permitted the innocent one to depart unmolisted.

Collo was committed to the back room of the house, in charge of Constable William D Malone. The band of twenty-one adventurers, who had remained through the proceedings, then marched into the house, passed through the front room where Judge Roberts was sitting, and demanded the prisoner. An appeal was made to the bystanders for assistance, but no one responded, and the Constable could make no resistance. One of the men jumped upon the table and announced, "Tomorrow at ten o'clock this Indian will be hung," and then they led him away. Collo confessed his crime and told who had been his companion, but the latter had taken counsel of his fears and departed from the country.

Veterans' News

Thousands of additional on-the-job training opportunities are needed so the Veterans Administration can complete their program of rehabilitating and retraining disabled veterans.

Although the number of disabled veterans training on the job in California increased slightly from 5,575 in August to 5,589 in September, in the country as a whole a slight decrease in the number of disabled veterans in training was noted.

The slight drop in September marked the first decline in the disabled training program since early in 1944. Contrasting the decline in job training opportunities, there is a growing demand from disabled veterans for this type of training.

Veterans Administration must depend on the continuing cooperation of employers in providing openings for the thousands of disabled veterans now awaiting job training opportunities.

Employers interested in training disabled veterans on the job are urged to contact the training facilities section of the San Francisco VA regional office, 49 Fourth St. Specialists will give them prompt and expert assistance in setting up job training prgorams designed to restore the disabled veteran to full employability.

Disabled veterans are screened carefully before they are assigned to a training establishment. VA's advisement and guidance helps them select job training of a type which they have the ability to perform and their disability will not be ahandicap.

Veterans with service connected disabilities are eligible for training under Public Law 16 if they require such training to restore their employability. The length of training depends on the amount of time necessary to become employable, although the maximum is four years except in special cases. All training must be completed under this law by July 25, 1956.

While a disabled veteran is training, and for two months after he has been declared employable, he will rceive a subsistence allowance from VA of a maximum of $90 a month if he has dependents of $65 if he has none. He will also receive his disability compensation.

If his wages received while training, plus his subsisstance allowance, exceeds the journeyman rate for a trained worker in the occupation for which he is training, VA will reduce his subsistance allowance proportionately.

THE - Diary of a 49'er

FROM THE BOOK EDITED BY C. L. CANFIELD

FEBRUARY 8, 1852.—I spent the day over in Nevada. It is getting to be quite a big town. What a contrast it is to our poky, slow New England villages. There are half a dozen stores which carry all kinds of provisions and hardware, two jewelry shops, two bakeries, a gunsmith store, butcher shop, five hotels, and gin mills too numerous to mention. Saturday night and Sundays—I forgot, one church—are the lively days. Then there are two or three thousand miners in town, the majority drinking, gambling and carousing. Woolen shirts and duck overalls are the fashion, and if you see anybody dressed up it's a sure thing he is either a gambler or a lawyer. What beats me is the craze the miners have for gambling. Every saloon has some sort of game runnnig, and the big ones have a dozen. "Monte," "Red and Black," "Chuck-a-luck," "Twenty-one," "Rondo," and "Fortune Wheels" are the banking games, and they play poker and "Brag" for big stakes. The fool miners work hard all the week and then lose their dust at these games of chance. There does not seem to be much chance about them, for nobody ever heard of a miner winning anything. Of course, the miners don't all gamble; in fact, a lot of them do their trading, get a square meal at the hotel, and go back to their claims. Still, enough waste their money to keep the sports slick and fat. I suppose they are looking for excitement — anything to break the monotony—and this is the way they get it.

Charley Donaldson, who had a rich claim on Brush Creek, worked it out last fall and left for the states with six or seven thousand dollars. In a couple of weeks he was back again hunting for new diggings, and it leaked out afterward that he lost every cent in a Frisco gambling hell. I have never tried my luck but once, and then I lost seventy dollars in half an hour. I don't regret it, though, for then it was when I met Marie and it was more than worth the price.

It looks as if it were going to be as wet a season as forty-nine. It has rained or snowed almost every day for a month. Teaming has quit and the stages don't make regular trips. Provisions have jumped up to double prices. Flour is scarce and the storekeepers are asking thirty dollars for a hundred pound sack. Last winter they all put in big stocks. It was a dry season and they lost money. This year they thought they could team the same as last and did not lay in heavy supplies, and, as a consequence, if the rains don't let up, there is a prospect of a famine. I am told that there are eight big team outfits loaded with flour, stuck in the mud, between here and Sacramento. Rattlesnake Dick, a sport and a desperado from Auburn, was chased out of town last week. He shot up a fandango house, held up a monte bank and then abused Stanton Buckner like a pickpocket, making the old fellow go down on his knees and beg for his life. About this time the citizens began to gather with shotguns and Dick took to his horse and struck out for some other camp. Buckner is a nice old fellow, a lawyer, prides himself on his Kentucky breeding, and swears that nothing but blood will wipe out the insult. I guess he won't hunt Dick very far.

More than a half million new horsepower from giant steam electric plants will be added in 1948 to this company's interconnected electric system of both hydro and steam powerhouses.

The first big block of additional power is scheduled to come on the lines in the spring of 1948, from the new Kern Steam Plant near Bakersfield. This steam-electric plant, costing $25,600,000, will generate 235,000 horsepower of electricity.

In the fall of 1948, an additional 298,000 horsepower will come from Station "P" Steam Plant at Hunters Point on San Francisco Bay. This is a $29,700,000 construction project that will increase the plant's present generating capacity from 62,000 to 360,000 horsepower.

Elsewhere on our system the company is driving ahead on other projects—hydro plants, gas lines, substations, transmission lines, etc. —an expansion of facilities that will cost a total of $350,000,000.

This huge construction program was started with a rush as soon as the war was over to meet and keep ahead of the growing demands for gas and electricity in Northern and Central California.

By 1951 P.G. and E.'s electric power capacity will exceed 3,500,000 horsepower and provide our customers with one of the greatest regional power pools in the Nation.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Ma Hoskins Sneezed at Cats!

Ma Hoskins couldn't understand why she got a fit of sneezing every time Harpo, the cat, came in the room. Finally figured she'd have to get rid of Harpo altogether.

Then Doc Hollister explained she had an "allergy." Cat's fur made her sneeze like strawberries give some folks rash. He gave her an inoculation so she and Harpo could live sneezelessly together.

I guess a lot of us have "allergies" in the social sense. Some folks just can't stand movies, or radio comedians. Other folks don't go for beer. Myself, I enjoy a moderate glass of beer or two with friends . . . but it's up to them what beverage they choose.

From where I sit, the important thing is not to let our social allergies result in antisocial taboos. Let's not criticize the fellow who likes beer if we like cider. A little inoculation of tolerance can help us live-and-let-live happily together.

Nevada County Long Ago -

Floy Margaret Reynolds

20 Years Ago

Father O'Reilly of French Corral held services at the historic Catholic Church in Birchville. Built at the time of the Civil War, the building was originally an armory for a military company that was organized on the San Juan Ridge. In 1869 it was purchased by the Rev. T. J. Dalton of the Grass Valley diocese, one of Nevada County's earliest priests, and dedicated to the Catholic faith. It was appropriately christened St. Columkille's for St. Columkille, a warrior.

The Woman's Home Department of the Indian Springs Farm Center met at Mrs. William Eddy's to elect the following officers: Mrs. Williams, president; Mrs. Loney, vice president; Mrs. McCrea, secretary. The ladies were currently working on basket weaving.

All the residents of Graniteville were busy harvesting their apple crop, the heaviest in years. A bell flower tree growing in the yard of Mrs. Margaret Brown yielded 625 pounds of fine quality fruit.

A tennis tournament was played between Grass Valley and Auburn at Memorial Park in Grass Valley. Players were Robert Deward, Al Abrams, Fred Nettell, W. Weeks, Dr. Jones, C. A. Rush, Jack Stennett and Tom Griffith.

50 YEARS AGA

Chauncey L. Canfield, general agent for the Chicago Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway and a former resident of Nevada City was a visitor in town. He was sinking a shaft for some gravel on ground near Round Mountain owned by the Graham brothers. In the hey-day time of Eureka, Nevada Messrs. Canfield and F. E. Fiske published a daily newspaper there called the Leader. Subscription price was $15.00 a year and fifty cents a week. The gentlemen considerd it a dull day when they didn't have a shooting scrape or a robbery to write about and they ran such a hot paper that they were not allowed on the street without a revolver and a Bowie knife. They commented that they had never since had so much fun and excitement to the hour as they did while running that little paper. Mr. Canfield was editor of the "Diary of a Forty-Niner", running currently in the Nugget.

Due to a break in the South Yuba Company's ditch the water supply along Deer Creek south of Nevada City was shut off and the stamps of the Champion mill were hung up.

The gambling game, Keno, had opened up in the Owl and Grotto Saloons in Nevada City and both places were being largely patronized. County officers were studying up on the law against gambling but could find no provision under which they could stop the fun. The games were run on the square and no percentage was being taken out. The houses took their chances on the players treating each time they made a winning and as they gnerally did the bar business was booming. Large crowds were seated around the tables and the scene was the most remindful of the good old days of '49 of anything that had been on the carpet for years.

75 YEARS AGO

The North Bloomfield Gravel Mining Co. purchased the controlling interest in the stock of the Badger Hill and Cherokee Gravel Mining Co. and intended to open the claims of the company as soon as possible. Messrs. J. B. Hunter, J. B. Cooke, John McCarthy and John T. Morgan disposed of their stock.

Roberts and Bradshaw sold their one-fourth interest in the Manzanita claims known as the Marselus and Maltman claims in Nevada City to W. H. Raymond of San Francisco for the sum of $15,000.
